

My First Sports Camp (ages 4-6) Coach

Job description

Company:

Our Youth Department provides programs for those looking to encourage child development through playing games, improving athletic skills, or just having fun! Athletic excellence is not required to be healthy and social, and Keva provides programs that encourage movement at any skill level. The Youth Department develops curriculums for their sports camps that are based on the needs and wants of children (ages 4-6 years old) and are intended to build skills that go beyond the court or field including teamwork, self-esteem, and the simple enjoyment of physical activity.

This position is entry-level, does not include staff-management, and directly reports to the Youth Camp Director. The primary function of this position is to perform the day-to-day care and engagement of our summer camp participants. This employee will lead sports and games with the kids, set up the appropriate equipment, and ensure that safety is being maintained at all times. This position requires a high activity level and the individual in this role must be able to participate in the activities that the kids are engaged in.

Job Description:
